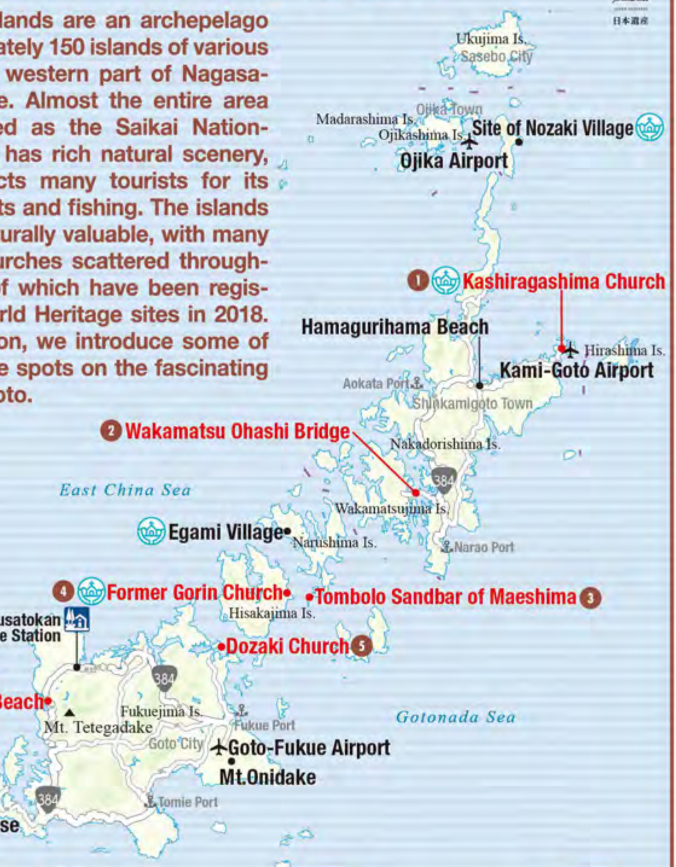
Goto Islands

The Goto Islands are an archepelago of approximately 150 islands of various sizes in the western part of Nagasaki Prefecture. Almost the entire area is designated as the Saikai National Park and has rich natural scenery, which attracts many tourists for its marine sports and fishing. The islands are also culturally valuable, with many Catholic churches scattered throughout, some of which have been registered as World Heritage sites in 2018. In this section, we introduce some of the must-see spots on the fascinating islands of Goto.



1 Kashiragashima Church (Kashiragashima Is.) — This church is designated as an Important Cultural Property in 2001. It is known for its gorgeous interior decorated with floral patterns featuring camellias.

2 Wakamatsu Ohashi Bridge (Wakamatsujima Is.) — The bridge connects Nakadori and Wakamatsu Islands. It's scenic to see the various boats pass under it and the whirlpools near the center.

3 Tombolo Sandbar of Maeshima (Maeshima Is.) — This sandbar appears only at low tide, and can be walked on. The pale stretch of tombolo is truly a spectacular sight and a soothing spot for visitors.

4 Former Gorin Church (Hisakajima Is.) — The temple was saved in its original form by the efforts of the local worshipers and reflects the church architecture of the time.

5 Dozaki Church (Fukuejima Is.) — Dozaki is the first wooden church in Goto and was rebuilt in brick. Now it is open as a museum that exhibits the history of the Christian persecution.

6 Takahama Beach (Fukuejima Is.) — A beautifull beach with a clear emerald sea, white sand and Saganoshima to the west. Takahama Beach is one of the 100 best beaches in Japan.

Hidden Christian Sites in Nagasaki and Amakusa

UNESCO World Heritage

A heritage site where Christians lived Japanese lifestyles while continuing their faith in secret during the religious ban. There are 12 sites that tell the story during this period of hiding.

C Location where the hidden Christians were discovered, making them no longer "hidden" — Oura Cathedral C-5, BackB-5, BackB-3

Built by a French missionary in 1864 after the opening of Japan. It is the oldest medieval European Gothic church in Japan. Some of its stained glass windows are approximately 150 years old. The Hidden Christians were discovered here in 1865, marking the end of the religious tradition of the Christians in hiding. 5-3 Minamiyamate-machi, Nagasaki City ACCESS 4 minutes on foot from Oura Cathedral streetcar stop.

Permission to publish the photos has been granted by the Archdiocese of Nagasaki.

A Secretly worshiping holy images and continuing the faith — Shitsu Village in Sotome B-4

A small Christian community that went into hiding during the religious ban that continued their faith regardless of the risks involved. Construction of Shitsu Church in 1882 marked the end of their hiding.

B Secretly gathering at the "shrine" and worshiping the object of their faith — Ono Village in Sotome B-4

The villagers appeared to be worshippers of the shrine, but in secret, they were praying to their own religious objects they had enshrined. Their hiding ended with the construction of the Ono Cathedral in 1893.

D An island of prayer with a history of hidden Christians — Villages on Kuroshima Island A-3

The church is on the island where Christians in hiding continued their faith in secret, while belonging to a Buddhist temple during the religious ban. The island retains its culture, nature, lifestyle and faith.

Ikeshima Coal Mine Tour

Ikeshima is the last coal mine in Kyushu and was in use until 2001. Many of the facilities still remain, and the tour of the coal mine, guided by former miners, is very popular.

SITES OF JAPAN's MEIJI INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

AREA 6 Nagasaki — SHIPBUILDING — COAL MINING

IRON AND STEEL, SHIPBUILDING AND COAL MINING

Japan rapidly industrialized from the latter half of the 19th century to become an industrial nation. Of the 23 heritage sites throughout Japan about the industrialization of its heavy industries, 8 sites related to the shipbuilding and coal industries are in Nagasaki.

Mitsubishi Limited Partnership, which laid the foundation of Japan's shipbuilding industry

Mitsubishi dates back to 1870, when Iwasaki Yataro established a shipping business with the goal of importing technology and developing its own made-in-Japan versions. By the late Meiji period, it had world-leading shipbuilding capacity.

Thomas Blake Glover

During the upheaval at the end of the Edo period, Thomas Glover developed contacts with samurai clans and had a key role in overthrowing the shogunate. He remained in Japan and devoted himself to modernizing the country.

Iwasaki Yataro

Iwasaki Yataro founded the Tsukumo Trading Company which became Mitsubishi. He built great wealth by monopolizing the government's transportation of munitions, and diversified into coal mining, shipbuilding, and banking.
